COOKING OIL THEFT

We are seeing an increase in the theft of and attempted theft of cooking oil within Gwent. Due to the energy crisis fuels and oils are being targeted. Cooking oil (and waste cooking oil) are stolen as they can be sold on to make biodiesel. Offenders often travel in transit style vans, where they can store large drums in the rear of the vehicle. Therefore we are advising businesses to keep used oil safely locked up in a storage area until your known oil collector can collect.

SOME ADVICE TO HELP PREVENT THE THEFT OF COOKING OIL:

- Make sure oil levels are regularly checked
- Secure the drums together or to a solid structure with a chain and padlock
- Install; alarm system, automatic movement sensors, lockable fencing to screen tanks from view and CCTV, together with the required signage to cover the areas
- Ensure suitable dusk til dawn lighting is in place
- Apply a defensible topping or anti-climb paint above 2.4m together with the required signage to the top of the fencing or low level, easily accessible roofs
- Ask for and check identification if persons claim to be subcontractors attending your location to remove the oil
- Do not approach or confront a potential offender, if you suspect them, report it as soon as you can
